Players of the Week

BOOMBAAH. Player of the Week

Sammy Marshall (Chicago Bandits)

Sammy Marshall had an excellent week at the plate getting at least a hit in all 5 games she played. Marshall ended up with multi-hit games in 4 of those 5 en route to a 12-18 week. Once on base, Marshall was deadly going 2 for 2 in stolen bases and scoring 8 runs. Marshall also completed the weekly “cycle” with a double, triple and home run to go along with her 9 singles. In total, Marshall led the league in batting average, runs scored, hits, and total bases this week.

Pitcher of the Week

Ally Carda (Texas Charge)

Ally Carda got off to an excellent start in her NPF career winning her first two games. Carda pitched 6 shutout innings in her debut followed by a 5 1/3 outing in which she only gave up 1 run. Carda ended the week with a 0.62 era, the lowest of any player with double digit innings pitched. She was also one of only three pitchers to win at least 2 games last week. Carda also did this while striking out 11 batters and walking only one.

Rookie of the Week

Xi Kai Lin (Beijing Eagles)

Xi Kai Lin had an excellent start to her NPF career despite a rockier start for the rest of her Eagles. While she finished 3rd in batting average (.625) among players with 5 or more at bats last week, Xi Kai Lin was first in on base percentage (.700) due to getting walked in her two other plate appearances. In addition to reaching base seemingly every time she walked up to the plate, Xi Kai Lin was also able to drive home a run with one of her 5 hits.

Fact of the Week

A Batters' Week

There were 12 batters last week that had at least 5 at bats and finished the week with a .400+ batting average. However, of pitchers that pitched 4 or more innings last week, only 7 of them had an era of under 3.00. So looking at batters who were regularly in the lineup, and pitchers who faced a good amount of those batters, the batters seemed to come out on top.
